

Pine Mountain Settlement School celebrated 100 years of service in 2013. As part of that celebration, the digital holdings of the Pine Mountain Archival Collection became available for viewing online.

Helen Wykle, recently retired archivist from UNC Asheville, and Ann Angel Eberhardt, formerly with the Smithsonian Institution, have worked diligently over the last ten years to both process the archival holdings at Pine Mountain and to produce this wonderful resource which remains a "work in progress". This new website (<https://pinemountainsettlement.net>) incorporates biographies of some of the former directors and many others associated with the school during its 100 year history. Historic photographs and documents relate the story of Pine Mountain Settlement's progressive education program, foodways, farming practices, and our involvement with community health issues through the health clinics and hospital.
